Release Papers In Seizure

Judge Holds Ones Of Communists Show Body as 'War Machine'

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3.—(P)—Judge Michael A. Musmanno today released seized Communist documents which he said "establish without question that the Communist party in America is a war machine with its primary and fundamental objective the overthrow of the government."

Musmanno made public photostatic copies of documents found in a raid August 31 on the Pittsburgh headquarters of the Communist Party of Western Pennsylvania.

Originals of 17 of the papers were sent by Musmanno to the House Un-American Activities committee.

Musmanno, Allegheny county (Pittsburgh) jurist, is the Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania in the November 7 election. He was a judge at the German war crimes trials and has waged a vigorous anti-Communist campaign from the bench.

Deemed provocative, Musmanno said:

"One piece of literature found in the Communist office said: 'In Korea the people have had the opportunity of witnessing the liberating role—not only in words but in deeds—of the Soviet troops, and the Soviet occupation forces, as contrasted with the enslaving role of American troops and the American military authorities.'"

Another document is a paper entitled "Ideological Questions on the Struggle for Peace" which says:

"The provocative of the puppet government of South Korea followed by U.S. armed intervention against the peoples' democratic republic can be fully understood only in the light of U.S. imperialism's role today, its drive for world domination and its advanced preparation for a new world war."

That document was one of several Judge Musmanno said he took from the office desk of Steve Nelson, chairman of the Western Pennsylvania Communist party.

Nelson, arrested the day of the raid on party headquarters, now is free on $10,000 bond on a charge of sedition which was filed by Musmanno. Two party aides, arrested with Nelson on a similar charge, also are free on $10,000 bonds.

Another statement in the pamphlet said:

"The U.S. is not only an imperialist country. It is the foremost imperialist country in the world, the center of world reaction, pursuing aggressive aims at world domination. It is seeking, like Hitler imperialism, to build a world empire."

The pamphlet, issued by the national education department of the Communist party in New York City in August, 1950, declared in a summary:

"Thus the facts show that the United States is an imperialist country. It is, moreover, the chief imperialist power in the world today. It has become the major oppressor of the peoples of the world—the gendarme of the world—to crush the liberation movements of the colonial, semi-colonial and dependent countries."

"It dominates over and oppresses the defeated countries, Japan, Italy and Western Germany and it is striving to enslave other capitalist countries, such as France, etc."

Sent to Washington

The documents sent to Washington include party directives addressed to "Dear Comrade," and work outlines for "clubs" among employees of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation and Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation.

A document entitled "Outline Guide for Speakers" includes a paragraph which says:

"The military provocation in Korea is planned as a smoke screen behind which to intervene against the struggle for independence of the peoples of Korea, China, Formosa, the Philippines, Viet Nam, Indonesia, and Malaya."

The Chicago Tribune in a story by Willard Edwards of its Washington staff said the documents were acclaimed by investigative agencies as "sensational in import."

The Tribune said copies of the seized documents are now in the hands of the FBI, investigators for the Un-American Activities committee and other government agencies.

The FBI in Washington said it had not received such documents, several days ago.

A New Project For The Rotary Club

Knowing three rooms at the Sedalia Day Nursery for Negroes, Morgan street and Lamine avenue, needed painting, and that money was scarce, the club volunteered to buy the paint and do the painting. They met there Monday night, and the above picture, taken by Bill Padgett, shows part of the group in action.

Governor Not Commit Self

Declines to Say If Action is Planned As to Sheriff

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 3.—(P)—Gov. Forrest Smith declined to say today whether he planned any action against Jackson county (Mo.) Sheriff J. A. Purdome.

Purdome was the target of sharp criticism last Saturday by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), chairman of the Senate committee investigating crime and politics. He charged law enforcement had been lax in Jackson county under the "personable" Sheriff Purdome—one of the last Kansas City witnesses before the committee.

The governor said he had not read newspaper accounts of Kefauver's criticism and knew nothing about it. But he said he had asked the committee for a transcript of its testimony about Missouri conditions.

"We've never had anything here telling us there's been any breakdown in law enforcement in Jackson county," Smith told his news conference.

"We've had no evidence or any complaint that any sheriff is failing to do his duty."

Could Direct Ouster

Under Missouri law, the governor could direct the attorney general to bring out proceedings, or the attorney general could act on his own.

Attorney General J. E. Taylor said he had observers at the Kansas City hearings last week but had not talked with them.

Taylor said flatly: "I'm not going to bring any ouster suit against anyone unless the evidence justifies it."

Newsmen told the governor one witness testified he had operated a gambling house in the county without interference.

But Smith said he didn't know anything about the testimony and had not read about it.

Reporters told him other witnesses testified that deputy sheriffs had been on the payroll of a gangland victim, the late Wolf C. Rimann, helping him place pinball machines in taverns. And that a tavern operator testified he employed deputy sheriffs.

If deputies were on a tavern operator's payroll that wouldn't be any evidence that the sheriff wasn't doing his duty," Taylor said. "They might have been deputized to keep order."

Newsmen recalled that the governor of Florida took action against sheriffs who had been criticized by the Kefauver committee. They asked if Smith would follow suit in Missouri.

He conceded he would have authority to start ouster actions under Missouri law "but I don't know."

Margaret Truman Cancels Concert

NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 3.—(P)—Margaret Truman has canceled a concert which was scheduled here tomorrow night to open her fall tour.

James Davidson, of New York City, Miss Truman's manager, informed Groton-New London Community Chest officials that the President's daughter was "in bed with a severe case of laryngitis" and would be unable to keep her engagement at Connecticut College for Women.

The concert was to have been a benefit for the Community Chest. It was reported sold out several days ago.

Is Chairman On Accounting

Paul Maxwell of the Rice Leghorn Farms has been appointed chairman of the accounting division of the Community Chest by Arthur Morgan, general chairman of the 1950 drive.

Mr. Maxwell and his committee will set up within the near future the books necessary to keep the records straight on the newly inaugurated pledge system and easy to pay plan. It is also planned that participating agencies will be requested to present financial statements quarterly to the accounting division and the Community Chest board.

U. S. Destroyer Hits a Mine

Vessel Injured; Vessel Damaged Off Korean Coast

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(P)—A second American destroyer has been damaged by a mine explosion off the coast of North Korea, the navy announced late yesterday.

It said the U.S.S. Mansfield struck a mine last Saturday and that seven men were injured. The incident was located 40 or 50 miles north of the 38th parallel and off the east coast of Korea.

Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, chief of naval operations, told the House armed services committee yesterday that "a great many" floating mines of Russian type have been found in Korean waters.

The navy had said earlier that the destroyer Brush was damaged when it hit a mine in the area last Wednesday. The toll in that explosion, injured yesterday, was 11 dead, 10 injured and three missing.

Sherman, after alluding to the Brush, said there had been mine damage to another vessel with "some fatalities." He testified before navy disclosure of the Mansfield incident, and the navy did not explain whether Sherman was speaking of that ship or whether a third had been involved.

The navy said the Mansfield, after emergency repairs, made port at Sasebo, Japan, as the Brush had done.

Meanwhile, a navy spokesman said that "no evidence is in hand that any submarine or submersible was sunk or damaged by U. S. forces."

This was in reply to congressmen's questions about reports that a U. S. ship had sunk a submarine in Korean waters.

Helicopter to Rescue Doctor

CODY, Wyo., Oct. 3.—(P)—A helicopter dipped down into a Wyoming wilderness area yesterday to rescue an elderly doctor injured on a hunting trip.

The doctor was taken to a Cody hospital where he was reported in critical condition.

The doctor, J. H. Kerr, 74, of Akron, Iowa, was injured when a horse fell on him last Saturday. A brother who was with him on the trip helped Kerr to an isolated cabin in the Absaroka mountains, 60 miles west of Cody, the brother is Dr. T. J. Kerr of North Platte, Neb.

A son, Dr. Harper Kerr, an Ann Arbor, Mich., lung specialist, flew here to help take care of his father.

The Iowa Doctor had made the trip to Wyoming to hunt bear.

REA Power To More Farms

Still Without Electricity Are 57,503 in State

By Charles Haslet
AP Special Washington Service
WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(P)—The Rural Electrification Administration said today that 76.3 per cent of all farms in Missouri were getting electricity last June 30 but that 57,503 farms in the state were still without electric service.

For Kent, said the REA, 74.2 per cent of all farmers had electricity in June as compared to 7.6 per cent in 1935. The agency said 36,468 farms in Kansas still lacked power on June 30.

The REA estimated that 185,431 Missouri farms were electrified in June compared with 17,893 or 6.4 per cent of the state's farms in 1935, when REA was established. Missouri's first REA-financed line began operation in December 1937 and the first in Kansas started in April 1938.

As of June 30, REA had approved $168,361,386 worth of loans to 49 Missouri borrowers who said they would construct 74,229 miles of line and other facilities to serve 227,147 rural consumers.

REA had actually advanced $98,957,470 of the loans as of June 30, and borrowers were operating 56,529 miles of line serving 181,852 farms and other rural consumers.

Average monthly farm consumption was 1,000 kilowatt-hours.

President Still on Vacation Cruise

ABOARD YACHT COMMANDER, Chesapeake Bay, Oct. 3.—(P)—President Truman continued a leisurely vacation cruise today with plans centering mainly on getting plenty of rest.

The president's schedule calls for moving into Chesapeake bay again after taking aboard the yacht Williamsburg two White House aides. They are John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, and Charles G. Ross, press secretary.

The president left Washington Saturday on a week-long vacation, the first he has had since the start of the Korean war.

Plan of Social Security For City Employees

Resolution to Council is to Be Considered

In the regular semi-monthly meeting of the Sedalia City Council held Monday night in council chambers of the city hall, Councilman Jim Reed of the Fourth Ward presented the council with a resolution by which the city employees of Sedalia may come under the benefits of the Social Security Act as amended by the 81st Congress. According to the provisions of the law, a city is required to submit their request to the state legislature for action. Upon the advice of the mayor the resolution was handed over to City Counselor Chester A. Wolfe for study and consideration.

As the resolution stands, all city employees except firemen will come under its benefits. Firemen have a retirement plan set up of their own and the International Association of Fire Fighters has voiced opposition to its members coming under the Social Security program.

The council also heard a proposal introduced by Councilman Emory Ellsworth of the Third Ward concerning the purchase of the area known as "Pfeiffer's Wood" for the purpose of creating a public recreation ground on that site. The mayor and council expressed their interest and approval of such construction. The mayor referred the matter to the Park board for investigation.

Ellsworth also called upon the city to install signs warning motorists of dangerous dips at the

Fatally Stab 82 With Spears Of Bamboo

Added Atrocities Are Revealed in Korean Strife

By Stan Swinton
WITH U. S. 24th DIVISION ON THE YELLOW SEA, Korea, Oct. 3.—(P)—A new batch of massacre survivors reported today that pro-Communist South Koreans stabbed 82 South Koreans dead with bamboo spears.

Witnesses said the victims were men, women and children in the anti-Communist village of Chung-yong, a few miles south of the west coast port of Kunsan.

The survivors said Red sympathizers slipped out of the hills at dawn and roused peasants from their sleeping mats.

They gave this account: All were herded into a circle and the Reds walked around the group, leaping at them and stabbing them one by one.

Afterwards, the renegades of the republic walked through blood-stained killing singling out individuals and killing them. They fled back into the hills shortly after dawn.

Peasant neighbors sharpened bamboo sticks of their own and formed a posse to chase the renegades, who had no guns.

Later, after South Korean authorities informed this infantry division, heavily-armed patrols of Negro doughboys were dispatched to help in the hunt.

Joined the Commies

South Korean survivors said they recognized the attacking band as former residents of the area who joined the Communists during the North Korean conquest. The local Reds took to the hills when the Red invader army disintegrated.

United Nations investigators reported another Red atrocity. They said 23 bodies were found in a well near Kunsan.

North Koreans taken prisoner by the 25th division said their units had disintegrated. They said their officers told them to try to reach the 38th parallel as best they could.

(Hundreds upon hundreds of South Korean civilians have been killed by the fleeing Reds elsewhere—at Seoul, Taejon, Chongju, and nearby villages. AP correspondent Ben Price reported 1,100 bodies were found in Taejon alone.)

(Bodies of 30 American soldiers were found there earlier. Price said searchers feared as many as 6,000 South Korean bodies might ultimately be found in Taejon. Mass graves also were being turned up in Seoul, the capital.)

Russell Preston of the Mercy hospital, Kansas City, will address representatives of all crafts at 8:00 o'clock Thursday night at the Community Chest Drive. His talk will be on what Mercy hospital is doing for children in Pettis county and all interested are invited to attend.

The meeting is for the purpose of discussing the Community Chest and to set up a labor division for the drive.

Sedalia Lions At Zone Meetings

The Sedalia Lions club was well represented at the first meeting of Zone 2, Region 1 of District 26-C held at Marshall Monday night by Zone Chairman Ed. Schleiger of Slater. The meeting was attended by Lion members from Sedalia, Slater, and Marshall.

From Sedalia were Kenneth A. Buchholz, president; Harold Seaberg, vice-president; Dr. David Miller, past-president; Dr. David Robinson, Dr. F. I. Lawrence, "Robert" Bob" Cain, Fred Handley, and District Governor D. Kelly Scruton.

The South Koreans had allied air support on a swiftly advancing bomb line and standard naval gun support alongside their east coast drive.

Allied air observers flew 15 miles north of Kosong without sighting the enemy anywhere.

The Reds were reported running toward Wonsan, 60 road miles north of Kosong, under reported orders to make a last

Came From China's Manchurian Border; Further Advance By South Koreans

By Russell Brines
TOKYO, Oct. 3.—(P)—The Far East Air Force reported Allied warplanes pounded heavy traffic columns rolling southward today in Red Korea from Communist China's Manchuria border.

The reports came as South Koreans pierced nearly 50 miles northward into Red Korea on a drive aimed to carry all the way to the Manchuria frontier.

Then the South Korean penetration army commander conferred urgently with two top U. S. generals who flew to Koryo airfield, just south of the parallel 38 border on Korea's east coast, to meet him.

Pilots making the strike along the international highway to the North Korean capital of Pyongyang reported they destroyed 56 trucks and five other vehicles.

They claimed damage on 12 other trucks and a dozen other vehicles.

The increased traffic on the road from Antung, Manchuria, to Pyongyang was first noted at 5:30 p. m., Monday (2:30 a. m., CST), an airforce spokesman said.

At midnight, B-26 night intruder planes failed to find any trace of the vehicle columns.

Fighter bombers were sent to the area shortly after dawn Tuesday. The first flight failed to sight any traffic.

Trucks camouflaged

The allied pilots flew lower and slower and eventually found camouflaged trucks off the paved road.

The air spokesman said 35 of the 56 trucks reported destroyed were bagged in the vicinity of the North Korean capital.

An air spokesman in Tokyo said the northernmost attack line along the highway was 30 miles south of the Manchurian border. The officer refused to comment on where the southbound traffic might have originated. Fifth airforce pilots reported truck kills in Kwaksan, Anju, Sinanju, Yongyu, all along the battered highway.

Antung is 100 air miles north-west of Pyongyang and across the Yalu river separating Korea and China.

A Red column was reported late last month streaming down from Manchuria but air patrols were unable to find any trace of it later.

(The Pyongyang radio, in a broadcast of the Reds' Tuesday night war communique, failed again to mention the border crossing by South Koreans late Sunday. The broadcast heard in San Francisco said the Reds had destroyed six allied planes and four tanks. It contained there still was heavy fighting in the Seoul area.)

Uijongbu Captured

AP correspondent Tom Lambert said American marines Tuesday captured Uijongbu, 12 miles north of Seoul.

At Koryo airfield near Kangnung, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, Eighth army commander, and Maj. Gen. Earl E. Partridge, Fifth airforce commander, talked with Maj. Gen. Kim Pak II, commander of the South Korean first corps.

Partridge piloted the small plane.

The reason for the conference was not disclosed. But an allied Korean military advisory group (KMAC) officer expressed concern over the small number of prisoners taken—50 to 75 a day.

KMAC officers feared that the Reds may be vanishing to mass up in the hills for a flanking attack.

AP correspondent Hal Boyle, with the republic's Third division, reported the South Koreans wheeled into Kansong, 35 air miles north of the border, by noon Tuesday.

Patrols stabbed ahead to Kosong, 50 air miles north of parallel 38.

The South Koreans had allied air support on a swiftly advancing bomb line and standard naval gun support alongside their east coast drive.

Gen. Marshall May Not Stay on As Secretary of Defense

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—General Marshall has given a hint that he may remain as secretary of defense only a short time. The hint is a request to continue as head of the American Red Cross—despite the fact that at the age of 70 he occupies one of the most back-breaking jobs in the cabinet.

The reason given is that General Marshall has been a strong advocate of civilian defense, and has committed the Red Cross to several civilian defense programs on which he would like to follow through. Behind this, however, it is believed that the general may want to step out of the Defense department some time next year and go back to the Red Cross.

The Red Cross board of governors will meet on November 18 to decide whether they will retain Marshall.

In the interim Marshall rates next to the President as the highest-paid public servant in the United States. His salary is $45,000 plus $6,000 for entertainment—total $51,000.

This is because Marshall now draws $22,500 as a cabinet member, plus another $22,500 as head of the American Red Cross, plus $6,000 for entertainment.

Even when head of the Red Cross alone and before he took the defense job, Marshall was one of the highest-paid public officials in the country, drawing $18,761 as a five-star general, plus $22,500 from the Red Cross, plus $6,000 for entertainment, or a total of $47,261.

Attempted Bribery

This column has sometimes been critical of the bureaucrats, but here is a tribute to a man whom the public probably has never heard of, William H. Kennedy, former assistant deputy commissioner of the alcohol tax unit.

Bill Kennedy retired the other day, after spending 30 faithful years with the government, and just before he retired it looked as if some of the big liquor companies were trying to pay him off.

Mysterious telegrams went out to whisky distillers asking that they send a series of presents to Bill Kennedy. The telegrams even informed the distillers what they should give Kennedy, as follows:

1. A maple bedroom suite.
2. An Oriental rug of an exact room size to fit Kennedy's new home.
3. A complete silver set.
4. A new radio-television set.
5. A set of Chinaware.
6. A Collie dog.

The telegrams were signed by "A. R. Reed" and sent from Philadelphia.

It happens to be against federal rules for anyone having business with the government to give presents to a government official. Furthermore it is not considered ethical to give expensive presents when an official retires. Therefore, Kennedy immediately sent telegrams to the distillers saying he knew nothing about the proposal to shower him with gifts and that he would not accept them if offered.

Kennedy also conferred with his fair-minded chief, Carroll Mealey, who sent investigators to the Western Union office in Philadelphia from which the wires were sent, to see who had suggested this series of indirect bribes. No one by the name of "A. R. Reed" could be located in Philadelphia, though investigators found that a man by that name had registered at the Statler hotel in New York, giving an address in Washington. When investigators checked on the Washington address, however, it turned out to be a vacant lot.

Finally, Treasury agents traced the telegrams to Dr. Louis Marks, head of the giant Publicker distilling firm in Philadelphia. The tip that Dr. Marks might be "A. R. Reed" came from Commissioner Mealey, who got to wondering why "A. R. Reed" wanted to send Kennedy a Collie dog. Then he remembered that Dr. Marks was fond of Collies.

Dr. Marks, incidentally, was fined $20,000 and given a suspended jail sentence last year for concealing German assets in the United States during the war. But he is now back in the distilling business and took a peculiar way to embarrass rather than reward a retiring and faithful public servant.

Johnson and Brewster

President Truman is still telling intimate friends about the reasons why he fired Louey Johnson. "I found out," said Mr. Truman recently, "about all those secret deals between Louey and Senator Brewster, and those trips Louey made to New York to see Barney Baruch."

"I hear that Louey and Brewster even had a connecting door between their apartments in the Mayflower," remarked the presidential caller.

"It was almost that bad," replied the President. "Louey was actually feeding Brewster ammunition against our foreign policy. It showed up in speeches by Republican Senators."

NOTE—Had Truman waited two weeks until after the Inchon invasion to fire Johnson, it would have been difficult. The secretary of defense would have received part of the credit. Hence the latest Washington wisecrack: "Truman has captured Formosa from the Republic-cans and prevented Johnson from taking Seoul."

Woodrow Wilson's Namesake

Former President Woodrow Wilson must have been present in spirit when a disabled veteran of the war he tried to prevent by a League of Nations called at the White House in a wheel chair.

The caller was ex-Army Corp. Woodrow Wilson of Millville, N.J., who lost both legs and a hand in Germany after the battle of the Bulge. He came to present President Truman with a forget-me-not, opening the annual fund-raising drive of the disabled American veterans. "You have a distinguished name," suggested Truman. "By any chance—"

"Yes, sir, I am related to the late President Wilson," said the veteran, "and was named after him."

"Well, I know he'd be mighty proud of you if he were here today," replied Truman. "You remind me of another young fellow to whom I awarded the congressional medal of honor. He told me he regretted having only one life that he could give to his country."

New Mississippi Congressman

A boy whose father died protecting a Negro from a lynch mob will soon come to Washington as the Congressman from the Third Mississippi district. He is 32-year-old Frank Smith, a hard-hitting, two-listed newspaperman, whose father, Frank Smith, Sr., was the sheriff of Lefflore county.

Smith made friends all over Capitol Hill when he was Sen. Frank Stennis's assistant a year ago. He returned to Mississippi and defied gloomy predictions to run for Congress against veteran politicians.

One opponent derided the well-padded Smith by saying he was "too fat" to do much in Washington.

"I wasn't too fat," replied Smith, "to fight in the battle of the Bulge as a foot soldier." That ended any talk about his weight.

Finis for McCarran??

A big political upset, the defeat of white-thatched Sen. Pat McCarran, tyrannical boss of the Senate Judiciary committee, is hinted in confidential reports from Nevada.

Major factor behind the possible dumping of McCarran is the smash-up of what the Republican national committee calls "the unholy alliance" between GOP politicians and the Democratic machine in Nevada. Under this back-room arrangement, Republican politicians supported McCarran in return for favors from the victorious Democrats.

But this summer, a rank-and-file revolt among Republicans elected Harold Stocker of Las Vegas as state chairman. And he genuinely wants to beat McCarran in November.

McCarran's GOP opponent is George E. Marshall, an up-and-at-'em campaigner, former judge and deputy district attorney.

Reports from Nevada reveal what few outside the state know—that Democratic strength in Nevada has been sloughing off since 1940 with an upswing of Republican votes. From 64 per cent of the vote in the presidential year of 1940, Democrats dropped to 50 per cent in 1948. The slump is worse in the off-years, with a low of 41 per cent in 1946 when Republican isolationist George Malone beat Democratic Rep. Berkeley Bunker.

Another little-known factor is that McCarran ran behind the congressional ticket in each of his three races for Senator.

Hoffman's Skillful Direction Made Marshall Plan Success

By Bruce Blossat

The Marshall Plan must now carry on without the leadership of Paul G. Hoffman, who contributed so mightily to its success.

In resigning, Hoffman made it thoroughly plain he doesn't consider that the ECA program's usefulness is on the wane. On the contrary, he held out the prospect it would be even more effective in its remaining years.

It isn't too much to say that the Marshall Plan is one of the most stirring ventures the United States has ever undertaken. Bold and resourceful imagination lay behind the original idea when it was conceived back in 1947. No cooperative recovery effort on such a world-wide scale had ever been contemplated before.

The state of the European nations and some in the Far East demanded courageous, drastic action. Countries flattened and impoverished by war were on their backs, ready prey for the Communist aggressor poised at their borders or lurking inside.

We met the challenge brilliantly. The Marshall Plan is a program worthy of the highest concepts of international statesmanship. Peace and world welfare are its objects.

Yet no matter how high its goals and how brilliant its birth as a plan, the program in the end had to depend for its success on the men who would run it. For this crucial task President Truman chose many able hands, but none more exactly fitted to the great responsibility than Hoffman.

In establishing the Marshall Plan as a going concern, in translating it from paper to reality, Hoffman exhibited high talent as an administrator, an organizer, a world diplomat and statesman.

He had to deal with men of many nations, to spur them to efforts they'd never made before, to push them toward a new level of international cooperation. He had to take the ECA program over treacherous congressional shoals several times, often coming through by the narrowest of margins.

Through it all Hoffman kept his balance and assurance, went on making ECA a resounding success. Europe is back on its feet economically, a continent almost unrecognizable by comparison with the prostrate land of 1947.

If ECA continues to work effectively until its announced end in 1952, that will be a tribute in part to the men who carry on. But primarily it will be further proof that Hoffman did his own job well.

The United States, and the world, needs more men like Paul Hoffman in its highest councils of responsibility.

ABUNDANT LIVING "IN SPIRIT OF"

Abundant living is sometimes on account of, but more often, perhaps, in spite of. When circumstances are against us, we must be able to set the sails of our souls and use even adverse winds. The Christian faith does not offer exemption from sorrow and pain and frustration—it offers the power, not from sorrow and pain, but to use these adversities. The secret of using pain and suffering and frustration is in many ways life's greatest secret. When you have learned that, you are unbeatable and unbreakable.

A young doctor said to me: "Your way of life is different from that of the psychoanalyst, who gives the patient a knowledge of himself and then hopes to resolve his difficulties; it is also different from that of the Meyer school, which would change the environment when disturbing factors are found there. You go beyond: you give a man a knowledge of himself, try to change his environment where possible, and then get the patient to lay hold on the resources of God, so that if he can't change his environment, he can use his adverse surroundings and make them serve his purposes. Yours is a more complete and adequate way of life." He was right, except that it isn't my way! I discovered it! It is Christ's way.

The Christian "can take it," because he can take hold of adversity and use it. A teacher of slum children was drawing up a list of the qualities in Jesus which appealed to the youngsters. When the list was apparently completed, a grimy-handed newsboy put up his hand and said, "They hung him on a cross, and he could take it." The boy was right, but the reason He could take it was not because of a stoic attitude. The reason goes deeper: He could take it because He could use it. He bore the cross, for He could use the cross. You cannot bear the cross long—it will break your spirit, unless you can take that cross and make it serve higher purposes. The stoic bears the cross; the Christian makes the cross bear fruit.

Any movement that has learned the secret of making the bitterest tree—the cross—bear the sweet fruit has learned the secret of abundant living.

O Christ, we begin to see Thy secret. Thou didst lay hold of life when life was speaking its cruellest word and didst turn that very word into God's most redemptive word. Thou didst not bear the cross—Thou didst use it. Give me power to do just that. Then, in Thee, I am invincible. Amen.

The Doctor Says—

Physically Handicapped Are Still Able to Fill Many Jobs

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

The first week in October has been set aside to emphasize the employment of the physically handicapped. The fact that it is still necessary to talk about the employment of those who are physically handicapped shows that this remains a real problem even though so much progress has been made in recent years.

An enormous number of people have some physical handicap which interferes with their complete physical health. This includes children who have been born with cerebral palsy (spastic children) or some other birth defect. It also includes those who have epilepsy, an injured heart from rheumatic fever, and many others. Grown-ups who have lost a finger or a limb, whose vision is impaired or who have any one of a number of other physical disabilities are also included among the handicapped.

Just because a person is suffering from some physical defect does not mean that he or she does not need to earn a living. Furthermore, most people with physical handicaps can do a good job if they are placed in the right kind of work. In fact some of those who are mildly handicapped in one way or another have even done well in certain kinds of sports! Many more can enjoy themselves in active games as has been demonstrated even by those who have had an entire limb amputated.

In the past many industrial organizations have refused to even consider the applications of those who showed any signs of deformity or physical handicap. Today the situation is much better. Many factories and offices take a real interest in employing those who have suffered some disease or injury which have left them damaged. They try successfully to put them into work for which they are suited. This present day outlook toward handicapped persons is gradually spreading, and although

The FORMER MISS FREY

By Edwin Ruff Copyright 1950 by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Edith Flood, the former Edie Frey, has inherited 51 per cent of the stock of Frey & Company, an advertising agency, along with troubles with her two brothers, Jeff and Myron, and young sister Jenn. Two accounts are shaky. One, Morn-Glo soap, has been placed temporarily by presenting Lewis Northcott, its advertising manager, with a new campaign. Meanwhile Edie receives word that her husband Peter is in Reno getting a divorce. Dan Reagan, Edie's executive at the office, reveals he is in love with Edie, but Edie does not give him her answer. Next the other second "shaky" account, Lyons Bread, kicks up a fuss and threatens to take dire steps. Dan has prepared two campaigns to present to Mr. Lyons.

XXVI

ON Friday when Reagan, Stoneham and Vernon were about to leave for the interview, Edie joined them. Reagan looked at her inquiringly and she inclined her head.

"Don't let it disturb you," she said, "but I'm going along. To see for myself."

She did see. As Reagan presented the campaign she sat unobtrusively in a corner of Mr. Lyons' office and watched that prissy little egotist methodically kill the ads over which Stoneham and Vernon had slaved. His objections seemed to her fuzzy, not clearly defined, childish and trivial. There was nothing that could not have been remedied with a few strokes of the pen. Yet Mr. Lyons turned the entire campaign down.

Doggedly, Reagan trotted out the spare. It met the same fate. Mr. Lyons pooh-hoed it from the start.

"I don't know what's come over your agency," he said at last, glaring at them fustily.

Reagan was close to the breaking point. He controlled himself with visible effort.

"Mr. Lyons," he said, "we've brought you at least three sure-fire campaigns in the last week. We thought they were good. Perfect. But let's grant that they were only 90 per cent. With a little fixing . . ."

Lyons interrupted, seizing upon the word "fixing." He waved his hand irritably. "Fixing. You can't fix a thing that's basically wrong. Can't be done." Suddenly his eye fell on Edie sitting, almost forgotten, in her corner. "I'm very glad you came today, Miss Frey. Because I understand that you've been in charge of the agency since—er—since your father passed away. Now you must see that this situation can't go on. What, Miss Frey, are you going to do about it?"

It was the moment Edie had been waiting for. Very deliberately she lighted a cigaret, although she knew that Mr. Lyons objected to tobacco. For a moment she looked at him, her green eyes narrowed.

"I'm going," she said succinctly, "to spend $90,000."

SHE heard Dan Reagan's involuntary gasp. She was aware of an apprehensive look flashing to Chuck Stoneham's face; of Mr. Lyons' complete mystification. "I don't understand you," Lyons said, mouth pursed. "You will in just a second," Edie's voice was very calm. "Ninety thousand is approximately the commission we make an your appropriation, Mr. Lyons. Well, Frey & Company is going to sacrifice it."

Lyons' face was a blank. "Com—going," he said. "I don't know what you mean."

"I thought," said Edie, "that I was being very clear. I'm asking you, Mr. Lyons, to take your account to some other agency."

At that point a data book which reposed on Reagan's knees fell to the floor, noisily, violently. Edie kept her eyes straight ahead. But out of the corner of one of them she caught a glimpse of Pat Vermembers, five from the United States and five from the U.S.S.R. zones. These nations occupied the country, the northern half above the 38th parallel by Russia and the southern half below the 38th parallel by the United States.

Q—Why is the vicuna called the prince of wool bearers?

A—These little camels from Peru produce the finest fleece in the world. A single vicuna hair is less than one-half the diameter of the hair of the finest fleeces from sheep.

Q—How was the site of our national capital finally determined?

A—The location was the result of a political deal between Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton in 1790. Hamilton agreed to support the southerner's bill for locating the national capital on the Potomac if Jefferson non. He wore a grin a foot long. Mr. Lyons was staring at her, utterly baffled.

"Wh—what?" he said. "It's very simple," Edie said. "I'm declining, under the present conditions, to do any more advertising for Lyons Bread."

"But this—but this . . . why, it's outrageous. I never heard of such a thing."

"I quite agree with you, Mr. Lyons. It is outrageous to have everything we do thrown out for no good reason."

LYONS looked a little like a cornered mouse. He sought refuge in paternalism.

"Young lady," he said, "you don't know what you're doing. You don't understand business. If your father were alive . . ."

"He'd have never stood for being bullied," Edie interrupted. "Mr. Lyons, I refuse to have our people driven and hounded this way. Commission or no commission."

Her eyes bored into his. And it was Lyons who looked away first.

"Now, now," he said, fuming a little, "we don't have to have a scene about it. I admit I've been driving you people lately. But I wanted the—the best advertising I could get." He finished lamely.

"We've given you the best we had to offer," Edie kept her voice hard. "But, apparently, it isn't good enough. That's why I suggest you make a change."

"Miss Frey," paternalism failing, Mr. Lyons tried reproach. "I did business with your father for over 20 years. Our relations were always—well, usually—satisfactory. And now you want"—he shook his head—"to sever this relationship."

"I don't want to sever it at all," Edie said. "I'm being forced to. You say that I don't understand business, Mr. Lyons. Well, maybe I don't. But I do understand people, to some extent. I know that the way we've had to work on your account lately hasn't done our creative people any good. There's a thing called morale, you know, and other than lose it at the agency, I'd sacrifice your account."

Weaving into a delightful story of foreign countries and our own, history, customs, culture, life itself, through a collection of dolls, Miss Lillian L. Stupp of St. Louis, left her audience with a deeper understanding of other people of the world in her talk before Sorosis Monday afternoon.

A woman with a charming, wholesome personality, Miss Stupp gave many interesting facts about the people of other countries and colored it with bits of humor from her own experiences as a world traveler.

Miss Stupp began her talk by saying that she did not start out to be a doll collector, she only gathered a few dolls on a trip to Europe in 1927 with her mother because she was a teacher of folk dancing. The dolls, in costume of the various countries, she said, she thought would help her in her work. But the doll collection grew from that when she saw the good-will between nations that dolls of various countries could create.

Too, Miss Stupp pointed out, many costumes no longer worn were preserved through the dolls and it was an interest in people, not dolls, that made her realize that physically it is one world. Today, Miss Stupp said, 60 nations are trying to find a way to peace but they have not yet learned to understand one another.

Taking her audience on a trip around the world she began with China, today war torn between the Nationalist and Communist government and where there are real problems. From China, where comes ancient civilization and culture, she displayed a Chinese boy doll with long queue. The boy in China, Miss Stupp said, is much beloved for two reasons, one because it is an agricultural country and secondly for ancestry.

From China, too, was the little girl with the bound feet, the old grandmother, loved and respected because of age, a thing American children often do not do, the speaker said. There also was the rice farmer in simple shoes and coat, the barber, smoking his opium pipe and the tools with which he worked; the high class lady, in ricksha pulled by a coolie, who now has gone modern and pulls the ricksha by bicycle; the professional mourner, who wears sack clothes, shoots fireworks, uses noisemakers and gets paid to mourn for one who has died.

Korea, Miss Stupp said, has its own old culture and is now the center of the war. She showed the school boy, the girl with straight silken hair in pigtails and short jacket dress, the head of the family in long white gown and stovepipe hat above his pompadour hairdo.

From Japan, now occupied by United States troops, she displayed the doll emperor, the man supreme with no one allowed to look upon his face. From that country, too, was the professional soldier which profession went from father to son, the lady in costume of gold and silver threads and jewels, her black hair high with a flower in it, and the professional girl entertainer, the stage where players wear masks and the country where rice is the staff of life.

From the Philippines were lovely ladies, and shadow puppets used for entertainment, with the women only allowed to see the shadow plays, and here, too, were medicine men—but, the speaker reminded the group, we have superstitions, too.

From Australia were fishermen, and New Zealand there were dolls dressed in clothing made from the fur of animals, the feathers of birds and the grasses of the fields.

The doll from India showed how a long piece of material was wrapped around a girl from head to toe, making her complete outfit, the Hindu boy with a turban designating his station in life.

There were dolls from the dark continent, Africa, where there are fabulous resources.

Among the dolls were those who told the story of how much women will suffer for what they consider beauty, the rings around the neck to make it longer, the hoop affairs put in the lips to make them big and protruding, the women with tattooed faces and bodies, women with rings in their noses.

From Arabia were women who were never seen without veils over their faces.

In Egypt were dolls in fashions

of the women, who do not have clubs, but who gather at the cemetery to pay respect to the dead and to gossip.

From Bulgaria was the tax collector, who notched a stick when he collected and gave a piece of scratched wood as a receipt, from Albania were men who had no pockets but carried their possessions in their sashes, from Greece the first queen in native costume, gay gypsies from Spain with suit curls and flowers, as well as the bullfighter with pigtails. From Portugal the doll was dressed in handmade lace and the sheep herder, from Italy dolls of felt, one a girl with a basket on her back, Sicily, where peasant costumes furnish ideas for stylists.

From Germany was a man who waits tables in a beer garden, figures of players in the Passion Play at Oberammergau, Poland, the colorful bridal pair, the Lapps who travel by reindeer, the Russian girl with long velvet coat and 'kerchief on her head, and from there, too, the egg, which means motherhood, within which are two children, the English royal family, the rich Patrick and Bridget.

Then, Miss Stupp brought the journey to this continent, with Canada, where there is both British and French culture, the Latin countries, in brilliant costumes, the cowboys and bull fighters.

The speaker ended her imaginary journey in our own country, showing the first Americans, the Redskins and among the Indian dolls of various tribes, was Sacajawea, who held a particular interest in Sedalia for it was here that the Girl Scout camp here was named. She was the Indian girl who was captured by Lewis and Clark and because she knew the country, the fruits and berries to eat, guided them safely through the trip. An outstanding woman in history she was the first Indian woman to be buried in a casket.

Other sections and history of our country were shown in the cowboys, the Bloomer girl, the Arkansas rum runner and the old lady with her sunbonnet who finished up her work picked up her baby and went to visit a neighbor. The Negro from New Orleans, the Hill-Billies from the Ozarks, the pioneer women who left luxuries in the east to help blaze the trail west.

There were Eskimos, too, in fur clothing and girls in grass skirts from Hawaii.

A mixture of many kinds of people, Miss Stupp said, and then our own baby. We must learn to understand, we are being challenged to take the leadership, the right leadership, and that leadership goes back to the towns, the clubs, yes, she said, to the women, for here lies the hope of the youth of today—then holding the baby doll higher, she concluded, for this, the youth of tomorrow.

Mrs. Kenneth Love introduced the speaker.

Mrs. O. W. Wiley, history and literature chairman, announced Dr. Charles Van Ravenswaay of St. Louis, native of Boonville, as the speaker for the next meeting.

A luncheon will be served at 1:00 o'clock preceding the meeting, with reservations to be in by Friday noon.

Mrs. Dimmitt Hoffman, president, presided over the business meeting at which time the announcement that the revision to the by-laws passed and the following members were voted into the club: Mrs. J. E. Norlin, Mrs. A. F. Scott, Mrs. Chester Wolfe, Mrs. Roy I. Coplin, Miss Margaret Egan and Mrs. Robert Johnson.

Miss Ina Mae Ayers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilvin Ayers, of Los Alamos, N. M., became the bride of Mr. John E. Dexheimer, on August 18, at the Trinity Methodist chapel in that city.

The Rev. W. John Parker, Christian minister, read the single ring ceremony. Mr. Dexheimer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Dexheimer, of Los Alamos and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Texan First American to North Korea

By Hal Boyle
WITH ROK FORCES IN RED KOREA—(AP)—A tall young Texan had the honor of being the first American to cross into Red North Korea with troops from the Republic of Korea (ROK).

Capt. William R. Williams of 1923 Pecan street, Texarkana, Tex., drove over the parallel 38 border Sunday right behind the leading ROK soldiers.

His Jeep flew two flags—those of the Republic and of Nationalist China.

And the captain apologizes to Texas for not having a Lone Star state flag along.

"They're a little hard to find this far north," he said.

Williams explained that one of his South Korean bodyguards had picked up the Chinese Nationalist flag and hoisted it on the Jeep.

Williams is an American advisory officer with Lt. Col. Kim Jung Sun, commander of a regiment of the Third ROK Division that led the march across the frontier into the enemy's country.

The regiment stopped Saturday night at Chumunjin. This is a small port on the Sea of Japan coast about 12 miles south of 38, the line that for five years has divided 10,000,000 Koreans under Communist domination in the north from the 20,000,000 ruled by the U.N.-sponsored republic.

Arrived Little Early
"We moved out Sunday morning at 5:30," Williams said. "Colonel Kim estimated we would reach 38 at noon. But we got there a little early and crossed at 11:45."

"The ROKs sent a platoon on ahead. It went more than a mile beyond the border and then ran into a fire-fight with some North Koreans. It was only small arms fire, machineguns and rifles, but the area is heavily fortified. So the platoon pulled back."

A reconnaissance patrol then went out and boldly cleared a network of wooden anti-personnel mines—they blew off a leg if stepped on. The withdrawing Reds had placed them around barbed-wire guarding a chain of hill trenches, concrete bunkers and camouflaged pillboxes just north of the frontier.

Even a small stubborn enemy force in such strong fortifications might have delayed the advance for days. But the rearward Reds had had enough. Most of them slipped away overnight.

"We attacked again in force at 5:30 Monday morning and met very little resistance—just a few isolated pockets," said Williams. Within four hours the ROKs had entered and taken Yangyang, the first North Korean town in their path. It lies five miles north of 38 and the Reds had honeycombed its streets with sandbags and ditches. But they didn't stick to these ditches long either.

"We took the town with just a few rounds of fire—and we didn't pick up many prisoners," said Williams. "There hasn't been any mass surrender on this march."

Williams praised the endurance of ROK foot troops who have been advancing steadily for 15 days. Since jumping off from the Pohang port area Sept. 19 they have come about 275 miles. Williams said most of them made the journey on tennis shoes rather than trucks.

"One day they went 39 miles," he said. "I never saw anything like it."

Williams took a souvenir from the empty enemy command post in Yangyang. It was a photograph of about 70 newly graduated young North Korean army officers.

In the center of the group sat a big, unsmiling Russian in uniform.

Real Chill Hits Through West

By the Associated Press

The coolest weather of the autumn season chilled most of the western part of the nation today but it was mild in the eastern and southern states.

Temperatures dipped as low as 19 above in Montana as the cold air spread southeastward from the northern Rockies and northern Plains into north central states. Readings were below freezing in many parts of the cool belt.

Stunt Pilot to be At The Air Show

By the Associated Press

Wilbur Staib, internationally known stunt pilot from Kansas City will be one of the feature attractions of the air show appearing in Sedalia Sunday, October 8, at the Municipal airport, it was announced today by Captain Chick, commanding officer of Battery "C" of the National Guard.

Staib was the star of this year's all-American air maneuvers in Miami, Fla., and Wm. L. Chick said the National Guard consider themselves quite fortunate in obtaining his services at Sedalia. For his appearance here, Staib will fly his own midjet bi-plane which has only a 14-foot wing spread. The ship was built by himself especially for acrobatic flying. As a finale to his many thrilling maneuvers, Staib swoops down to within only a few feet of the ground while flying upside down and, with his wheels, cuts a rhythm held aloft on two poles. All of Staib's maneuvers are performed at extremely low altitudes, directly in front of the crowd.

Arrangements have been completed at the field to handle upwards of 25,000 spectators and 200 visiting aircraft. Owing to the cancellation of this year's Cleveland National Air Races, the National Guard have been able to obtain services of the top pilots and stunt men in the United States. No expense has been spared in bringing them to Sedalia. Captain Chick also announced that the world series will be broadcast over the public address system.

Social Events

Weaving into a delightful story of foreign countries and our own, history, customs, culture, life itself, through a collection of dolls, Miss Lillian L. Stupp of St. Louis, left her audience with a deeper understanding of other people of the world in her talk before Sorosis Monday afternoon.

A woman with a charming, wholesome personality, Miss Stupp gave many interesting facts about the people of other countries and colored it with bits of humor from her own experiences as a world traveler.

Miss Stupp began her talk by saying that she did not start out to be a doll collector, she only gathered a few dolls on a trip to Europe in 1927 with her mother because she was a teacher of folk dancing. The dolls, in costume of the various countries, she said, she thought would help her in her work. But the doll collection grew from that when she saw the good-will between nations that dolls of various countries could create.

Too, Miss Stupp pointed out, many costumes no longer worn were preserved through the dolls and it was an interest in people, not dolls, that made her realize that physically it is one world. Today, Miss Stupp said, 60 nations are trying to find a way to peace but they have not yet learned to understand one another.

Taking her audience on a trip around the world she began with China, today war torn between the Nationalist and Communist government and where there are real problems. From China, where comes ancient civilization and culture, she displayed a Chinese boy doll with long queue. The boy in China, Miss Stupp said, is much beloved for two reasons, one because it is an agricultural country and secondly for ancestry.

From China, too, was the little girl with the bound feet, the old grandmother, loved and respected because of age, a thing American children often do not do, the speaker said. There also was the rice farmer in simple shoes and coat, the barber, smoking his opium pipe and the tools with which he worked; the high class lady, in ricksha pulled by a coolie, who now has gone modern and pulls the ricksha by bicycle; the professional mourner, who wears sack clothes, shoots fire works, uses noisemakers and gets paid to mourn for one who has died.

Korea, Miss Stupp said, has its own old culture and is now the center of the war. She showed the school boy, the girl with straight silver hair in pigtailed and short jacket dress, the head of the family in long white gown and stovepipe hat above his pompadour hairdo.

From Japan, now occupied by United States troops, she displayed the doll emperor, the man supreme with no one allowed to look upon his face. From that country, too, was the professional soldier, which profession went from father to son, the lady in costume of gold and silver threads and jewels, her black hair high with a flower in it, and the professional girl entertainer, the stage where players wore masks and the country where rice is the staff of life.

From the Philippines were lovely ladies, and shadow puppets used for entertainment, with the women only allowed to see the shadow plays, and here, too, were medicine men—but, the speaker reminded the group, we have superstitions, too.

From Australia were fishermen, and New Zealand there were dolls dressed in clothing made from the fur of animals, the feathers of birds and the grasses of the fields. The doll from India showed how a long piece of material was wrapped around a girl from head to toe, making her complete outfit, the Hindu boy with a turban designating his station in life.

There were dolls from the dark continent, Africa, where there are fabulous resources.

Among the dolls were those who told the story of how much women will suffer for what they consider beauty, the rings around the neck to make it longer, the hoop affairs put in the lips to make them big and protruding, the women with tattooed faces and bodies, women with rings in their noses.

From Arabia were women who were never seen without veils over their faces.

In Egypt were dolls in fashions

of the women, who do not have clubs, but who gather at the cemetery to pay respect to the dead and to gossip.

From Bulgaria was the tax collector, who notched a stick when he collected and gave a piece of scratched wood as a receipt, from Albania were men who had no pockets but carried their possessions in their sashes, from Greece the first queen in native costume, gay gypsies from Spain with suit curls and flowers, as well as the bullfighter with pigtailed. From Portugal the doll was dressed in handmade lace and the sheep herder, from Italy dolls of felt, one a girl with a basket on her back, Sicily, where peasant costumes furnish ideas for stylists.

From Germany was a man who waits tables in a beer garden, figures of players in the Passion Play at Oberammergau, Poland, the colorful bridal pair, the Lapps who travel by reindeer, the Russian girl with long velvet coat and kerchief on her head, and from there, too, the egg, which means motherhood, within which are twelve children, the English royal family, the Irish Patrick and Bridget.

Then, Miss Stupp brought the journey to this continent, with Canada, where there is both British and French culture, the Latin countries, in brilliant costumes, the cowboys and bull fighters.

The speaker ended her imaginary journey in our own country, showing the first Americans, the Redskins and among the Indian dolls of various tribes, was Sacajawea, who held a particular interest in Sedalia for it was for her that the Girl Scout camp here was named. She was the Indian girl who was captured by Lewis and Clark and because she knew the country, the fruits and berries to eat, guided them safely through the trip. An outstanding woman in history she was the first Indian woman to be buried in a casket.

Other sections and history of our country were shown in the cowboys, the Bloomer girl, the Arkansas rum runner and the old lady with her sunbonnet who finished up her work picked up her baby and went to visit a neighbor. The Negro from New Orleans, the Hill-Billies from the Ozarks, the pioneer women who left luxuries in the east to help blaze the trail west.

There were Eskimos, too, in fur clothing and girls in grass skirts from Hawaii.

A mixture of many kinds of people, Miss Stupp said, and then our own baby. We must learn to understand, we are being challenged to take the leadership, the right leadership, and that leadership goes back to the towns, the clubs, yes, she said, to the women, for here lies the hope of the youth of today—then holding the baby doll higher, she concluded, for this, the youth of tomorrow.

Mrs. Kenneth Love introduced the speaker. Mrs. O. W. Wiley, history and literature chairman, announced Dr. Charles Van Ravenswaay of St. Louis, native of Booneville, as the speaker for the next meeting. A luncheon will be served at 1:00 o'clock preceding the meeting, with reservations to be in by Friday noon.

Mrs. Dimmitt Hoffman, president, presided over the business meeting at which time the announcement that the revision to the by-laws passed and the following members were voted into the club: Mrs. J. E. Norlin, Mrs. A. F. Scott, Mrs. Chester Wolfe, Mrs. Roy L. Coplin, Miss Margaret Egan and Mrs. Robert Johnson.

Texan First American to North Korea

By Hal Boyle
WITH ROK FORCES IN RED KOREA—A tall young Texan had the honor of being the first American to cross into Red North Korea with troops from the Republic of Korea (ROK).

Capt. William R. Williams of 1923 Pecan street, Texarkana, Tex., drove over the parallel 38 border Sunday right behind the leading ROK soldiers.

His Jeep flew two flags—those of the Republic and of Nationalist China.

And the captain apologizes to Texas for not having a Lone Star state flag along.

"They're a little hard to find this far north," he said.

Williams explained that one of his South Korean bodyguards had picked up the Chinese Nationalist flag and hoisted it on the Jeep.

Williams is an American advisory officer with Lt. Col. Kim Jung Sun, commander of a regiment of the Third ROK Division that led the march across the frontier into the enemy's country.

The regiment stopped Saturday night at Chumunjin. This is a small port on the Sea of Japan coast about 12 miles south of 38, the line that for five years has divided 10,000,000 Koreans under Communist domination in the north from the 20,000,000 ruled by the U.N.-sponsored republic.

Arrived Little Early
"We moved out Sunday morning at 5:30," Williams said. "Colonel Kim estimated we would reach 38 at noon. But we got there a little early and crossed at 11:45."

"The ROKs sent a platoon on ahead. It went more than a mile beyond the border and then ran into a fire-fight with some North Koreans. It was only small arms fire, machineguns and rifles, but the area is heavily fortified. So the platoon pulled back."

A reconnaissance patrol then went out and boldly cleared a network of wooden anti-personnel mines—they blew off a leg if stepped on. The withdrawing Reds had placed them around barbed-wire guarding a chain of hill trenches, concrete bunkers and camouflaged pillboxes just north of the frontier.

Even a small stubborn enemy force in such strong fortifications might have delayed the advance for days. But the rearward Reds had had enough. Most of them slipped away overnight.

"We attacked again in force at 5:30 Monday morning and met very little resistance—just a few isolated pockets," said Williams.

Within four hours the ROKs had entered and taken Yangyang, the first North Korean town in their path. It lies five miles north of 38 and the Reds had honeycombed its streets with sandbags and ditches. But they didn't stick to these ditches long either.

"We took the town with just a few rounds of fire—and we didn't pick up many prisoners," said Williams. "There hasn't been any mass surrender on this march."

Williams praised the endurance of ROK foot troops who have been advancing steadily for 15 days. Since jumping off from the Pohang port area Sept. 19 they have come about 275 miles. Williams said most of them made the journey on tennis shoes rather than trucks.

"One day they went 39 miles," he said. "I never saw anything like it."

Williams took a souvenir from the empty enemy command post in Yangyang. It was a photograph of about 70 newly graduated young North Korean army officers.

In the center of the group sat a big, unsmiling Russian in uniform.

J. T. Martin Rally Speaker

Republicans Held It Monday Night At Maple Grove

The Republican rally held Monday night at Maple Grove school was attended by an overflow audience which necessitated the use of extra chairs to accommodate the large crowd. Jim Gordon, committeeman and Mrs. Cora Elliott, committee woman were in charge of the local arrangements.

Mrs. Maude Harris, Maple Grove school teacher, directed a children's program which was noted for its appropriately patriotic theme, "Teaching Americanism in the Schools." Songs, a flag drill and a dramatic skit on "Education for Americanism" were given by the twenty-two students.

The Republican county candidates were introduced by Carl G. Schrader, Pettis county Republican committeeman, and they explained the duties, obligations and administration of the county offices for which they seek election. Those presented were: J. V. Kesterson, presiding judge of the county court; Edward Callis, the county clerk; William Blain, judge of the magistrate court; Hazel Palmer, county collector; Albert W. Newman, circuit clerk; Michael J. Bogutski, prosecuting attorney; J. H. (Jim) Green, county clerk and Frank L. Wagner, county treasurer.

John T. Martin, Speaker

John T. Martin was the principal speaker, discussing national issues, stressing the thought that the present trend toward a specialist state was but the intermediate step toward full communism. He pointed out that the present administration was spending in three months more than could be realized from the sale of every farm in the United States.

Tonight, October 3, a Republican community meeting will be held at the Longwood school, with J. Merle Raines, committeeman and Mrs. Roy Taylor, committeewoman, in charge of local arrangements. Tomorrow evening, October 4, a Republican rally will be held in the Oak Point school and Thursday, October 5, all Republican candidates will attend the B. P. W. public affairs banquet at the Bothwell hotel. On October 6 a GOP meeting will be convened at the Lovelace school.

Edward G. Ringer announced the Optimist party on October 17, at which time the Opti-Mrs. would be entertained at the Old Missouri Homestead with a dinner followed by a dance. A floor show will be the feature of entertainment with three outstanding numbers.

ditch stand there on the Sea of Japan coast.

Boyle said about 60 American army men were with the South Koreans as advisers. But the Americans were under new orders, Boyle said, not to discuss the drive into Red Korea with war correspondents.

South Korean officers, under no such restrictions, talked freely. A spokesman for General MacArthur had described the border crossing situation as delicate politically.

Red China is reported to have thousands of veteran troops massed in Manchuria across the Yalu river from Red Korea. Communist China leaders have made threatening talk but no march of Red China soldiers into North Korea has been reported from authentic sources.

North of the Border

MacArthur's headquarters broke its silence Tuesday on the cross border campaign that began Sunday as an all-Korean show. It said merely that the South Korean Third division had advanced to Tongcho, a village 13 miles north of the border.

The South Korean Third has thrust about 275 road miles since it kicked off 15 days ago in the Pohang port area.

"We are going to the borders of Manchuria," said Lt. Col. Jung Rei Hioh, Third division chief of staff.

We will get there in a month—maybe two months. But we want to get there before the winter comes."

In Offensive Mood

The Manchurian border is about 180 air miles north of parallel 38, the border between south and north Korea. By road, it is closer to 300.

Jung continued: "Morale is high and the men are in an offensive mood. Our worry now is that our front commanders may go too far too fast. They all want to make it a race."

"Every day we have a few casualties—10 or 15 wounded, three or four killed."

Jung said the biggest trouble was lack of transport. Troops rode in battered trucks so laden the axles groaned. Small boys helped carry ammunition for the troops.

North Korean civilians cheered and tossed purple and white flowers to the weary South Koreans and handed out apples and persimmons.

"Our commanding general's policy is not to molest the people nor to punish any civilians without trial," Jung said. The troops were under orders to show the virtues of democracy by kindness and good conduct.

Jung said retreating Red forces had murdered 15 boys and one girl in Kangnung, just south of the border. Red troops behind the Third's northern spear raided villages for cattle and rice.

Jung said "we had reports that 30,000 enemy withdrew northwest of Kangnung ahead of us but we haven't run into them."

"We expect the enemy to put up a strong fight at Wonsan."

Fresh troops poured across the border in support of the thrust. Wonsan is a coastal industrial center with fertilizer and chemical plants. B-29s hit it hard early in the war.

Call to UN To Occupy All of Korea

Australian For Army Destruction As Fighting Force

By Tom Ochiltree

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Australia called today for the occupation of all Korea by United Nations forces, but India expressed grave doubts about the wisdom of such a course.

India's Sir Benegal N. Rau expressed opposition to an American-supported eight-nation resolution which he said authorizes by implication the crossing of the 38th parallel and the indefinite occupation of North Korea.

Australian Foreign Minister Percy C. Spender asked for the complete destruction of the North Korean army as a fighting force to prevent a new aggression in that country. The Indian and Australian views were expressed before the General Assembly's political committee which is debating proposals for pacification and unification of Korea.

In a defense of the crossing by South Korean forces of the 38th parallel, Spender said:

"It would be useless if North Korean forces were allowed to remain ready again to threaten South Korea. The bloodshed and destruction of the last months would all have been in vain."

Spender said the only logical interpretation of the Security Council's resolution of June 27 "is that the North Korean army, which was the aggressor, must be utterly destroyed as a fighting force; which, by corollary, means pursuing it across the parallel."

He explained that this crossing was only for the purpose of pacifying all Korea and said: "We do not intend that large forces of troops of any member of the United Nations will remain permanently in Korea."

know that the conditions are the same as in Florida."

Smith first said he didn't know where he could get the committee's Kansas City testimony. Reporters said it all had been in the newspapers and the governor replied:

"I found out you just can't always—the newspapers just don't give everything."

Later, he said he had asked someone connected with the committee to make the Missouri transcript available to him after the committee finishes its hearings in St. Louis.

Aerial View of Versailles

Versailles, with a reputation of being one of Missouri's leading resort towns, is situated on the Gravois arm of the Lake of the Ozarks, 18 miles south of U. S. highway 50 on state highway 5.

A thriving community of 1,877 and the county seat of Morgan county, it is rapidly becoming the unchallenged leader in the Lake of the Ozark resort trade.

The industries in the town include the Kansas City Lens Mfg. company, producing bifocal lenses for various optical companies. Also included is the Primo Pants company, employing nearly 100 persons in the production of work clothes.

Versailles' Farm Products company, under President C. D. Marlow of St. Louis, is the region's leading milk processing plant. Royce Moser Hatchery supplies baby chicks to farmers throughout the country and the W. F. Kidwell Granite & Monument Works turns out finished monuments from rough, uncut stone, as well as a large supply of concrete vaults.

Municipal Officers
The town's mayor is C. P. Jamison and other members of the city government include a four-man board of aldermen. Fifteen men make up the volunteer fire department. The town has a day and night marshal and several other special officers.

Versailles has a high school enrollment of 300 and as many in the grade school, which is a separate building from the high school. There are seven churches of various denominations.

The town owns its water and sewerage system and receives its electric power from the Missouri Utilities company. The Ozark Central Company supplies the community's telephone service.

Each September the Versailles Lions club sponsors a fair held on grounds purchased and maintained by the local club. The Kiwanis club of Versailles sponsors the community's Boy Scout troops.

Name Came From France
It is believed by many citizens in Versailles that the town acquired its name through a group of Frenchmen who were trapping in that region. It is believed that they named the town in honor of the royal palace at Versailles, France, which was constructed during the reign of King Louis

XIV as a private retreat. The original town plot was donated by Jacob Wyman and Hugh Galbraith. The town then was three blocks wide and 12 blocks long. The settlers selected the highest point, located in the center of the town, as the site for the court house.

In 1835 Versailles was made the county seat. The first house was built on the land by Galbraith. In 1836 William Hicks opened a 3-room log tavern to accommodate travelers who passed through the region and in the same year a blacksmith shop and the town's first saloon were built.

The first brick made in the area was turned out by a Mr. Jones. This was utilized by the settlers to build more permanent structures in the community.

Incorporated in 1881
On February 13, 1886 the residents voted to incorporate and on May 21, 1881 another vote was taken and Versailles became a fourth class city. On July 9, 1881 the first election was held and B. R. Richardson was made the town's first mayor.

On March 23, 1886 the west side of the square caught on fire was burned out. The fire crossed the street, heading south, and burned a number of buildings on that side of the square before it could finally be brought under control. This was partially rebuilt when on March 12, 1887 a second fire broke out on the square. This time on the northeast corner. The fire burned half of that block and then switched to the east. High winds carried the sparks to the roof of the log court house building in the center of the square and that building was destroyed.

Several Newspapers
Versailles has had more than its share of newspapers throughout its years of existence and was always capable of starting another as its predecessor failed. The first paper was started in 1858 and was known as the Morgan County Forum. This was followed by The Banner in 1866, The Gazette in 1871, The Messenger in 1884 and finally the Versailles Vindicator. The paper that is leading in Morgan county at the present time is the Versailles Leader, established in 1905 and published weekly by Roy E. Otten.

Sectional feelings were kept in check by the citizens of Versailles and although everyone had opinions about the purposes and justification for the Civil War, no one actually opposed one faction or the other.

On May 10, 1861, however, Camp Jackson was captured and Versailles bowed to sectionalism. The citizens, on the other hand, acted wisely and instead of fighting among themselves, joined the two armies and left the town in peace. It was because of this that violence was kept at a minimum in Versailles. The only trouble in the region came from the various marauding parties.

Armies Attacked
A man by the name of Stephenson led the bushwhackers. The two armies were constantly being attacked as they passed through the area. Five Union soldiers were ambushed not far from Versailles. They fled and in the chase one horse tripped, throwing the rider. And the soldier was killed by the pursuers. Two other men were injured in the chase before the attackers were finally driven off.

Two other persons from the territory were hanged by bushwhackers. Though Versailles survived the Civil War without a scratch, the record shows that had it not been for a certain Dr. Thurston both armies might have raided the town.

Two southern citizens had returned from the army and were convinced that another local resident, named Crawford, had betrayed them to the Unionists, resulting in the loss of some of their personal property. They were determined to find Crawford and kill him. They voiced their intentions around Versailles and set out to find their betrayer. Crawford was found at the post office.

Called Crawford Out
The two southerners stood outside in the street and called for Crawford to come out of the building. Although he realized their intentions Crawford went out and talked to the men. Finally the two drew their guns and were prepared to shoot when Dr. Thurston walked into the group and separated the men. Crawford pleaded with the doctor to save him from the enraged Confederates, but the men were determined to get their betrayer and told Crawford that they would not harm him if he would climb up behind one of the men on his horse and take a ride into the country, so the three of them could talk in private. The doctor was against it but the men warned the doctor to stay out of the discussion or he would get himself in trouble.

Crawford agreed to go along with his captors and the three rode out of town. Fearing for Crawford's safety Dr. Thurston followed the trio. He came to the place where the three had stopped and dismounted only to find the southerners again threatening Crawford with death.

This time they claimed that Crawford had not only been responsible for them losing a buggy and several horses, but also was the cause of another Confederate being captured.

Went to Commander
Dr. Thurston told them to free Crawford and allow him to appeal to the Union headquarters for the freedom of the Confederate in exchange for his (Crawford's) life. The two agreed and Crawford went to the Union commander.

Instead of asking for the release of the southerner Crawford told the officers of horrible treatment being received by the inhabitants of the Versailles territory and the enraged Union commander immediately dispatched a detachment of men to punish the guilty.

The only thing that saved the town from attack and plunder was the foresight of the officer in charge of the Union forces. Before going into Versailles the officer stopped at the home of Dr. Thurston to ask about the trouble and it was then that the doctor gave the true explanation of the difficulties. He explained that the trouble involved not the whole town, but had been restricted to a personal feud. The officer then ordered his troops back to the headquarters.

Indian Legend
Another point of interest that should be noted during a survey of Versailles history is an old Indian legend which has yet to be contradicted.

The legend deals with the early explorers in the Morgan county territory. While looking for a site suitable for the founding of a town the pioneers went out on several expeditions which carried them to various parts of the country. While on one of these tours they discovered that they were being followed by Indians. The men stopped one of the old men, who turned out to be an old man, and asked him the reason for following them. According to the legend, the Indian claimed that he was only attempting to show them where to build their town.

Versailles in Ozarks

Asked where he would suggest, the sage old Indian pointed to a particular spot and told them that if they would build their town on that site no tornado would ever hit the town.

The town was built on the spot pointed out by the Indian and since that time tornadoes and cyclones have hit on all sides of the town, but not once has Versailles been touched.

(By G. R. Morris)

VERSAILLES, Mo.—That wild animals much larger than any modern species found in the Middle West area once roamed the Ozark Mountain region and "holed up" occasionally in its numerous caves seems certain in the light of the discovery of fossil bones in the brown clay that forms the floor of Jacobs Cave, six miles south of Versailles on Missouri Highway 5.

The discoveries have attracted Donald M. Johnson, chief of the Museum Division of Missouri's Division of Resources and Development, who will be in Versailles March 4 to inspect the fossils that already have been obtained in the course of excavating that is part of the process of conditioning the cave for public purposes.

Others Found Daily

Other fossils are being found daily. Some have been left just as the excavators and workmen discovered them, imbedded in the clay matrix. This will enable Mr. Johnson to study the remains in their entirety.

One interesting fossil is a splendidly preserved tusk 4 1/2 inches long on its convex surface, with a sharp point that never received damage in any combat its owner may have engaged in. A smaller, matching tusk, apparently from the animal's lower jaw, was found with the long tusk. Worn places on one side of each tusk indicate that they were matched and rubbed against each other.

Large Size Jawbones

Sections of jawbones containing molars of quite large size may have been part of the same, or similar animals. One almost complete lower jawbone "assembly" was found. In this jawbone were two well preserved tusks about 2 inches long. Further back on the jawbone were large molars, indicating an animal of considerable size. All of the finds were many feet deep in the cave clay, indicating great age.

If the American Puma, variously known as panther, catamount, or "painter" once roamed this area and the long tusk found came from such an animal, he must have been a whopper—much greater in size than the Pumas of today, found in the mountainous areas of Western United States.

Early Explorations

Earlier explorations of Jacobs Cave, which is dealt with in Bulletin III of Missouri State Museum, were made under great difficulty, with the necessity of much "belly-crawling" squeezing through narrow passages and getting oneself wet in the cold, 60° degree stream that meanders through the cave. Such explorations, made by benefit of candle-light, lanterns or burning faggots, made examinations of dripstone formations difficult and inadequate. No fossils were discovered so far as is known, until Russell P. Hall, Versailles citizen who owns the land over and around the cave, inaugurated the enterprise of conditioning it for tourists. Entrances, so small only animals or men crawling on all fours could pass through, have been enlarged so that bulldozers can be driven into the cave, to level the floors in the large rooms and push surplus earth and fall-rock outside to form level entrances. When removal of centuries-old accumulations of clay and widening of rock-walled passages started, fossil bones appeared as shovels worked. It will not be surprising if those BALER HAS HIGH "I Q"—A new wire-tying farm baler, claimed by engineers to be almost capable of "thinking," is put through its paces at New Holland, Pa. Able to turn out up to 10 tons of baled hay each hour, the machine has an automatic warning device that tells when the wire supply is running out, hydraulic controls to keep the bales uniform and other automatic devices.

HARRISONBURG, Va.—(P)—Few knew it, but Louisville, Ky., of Kentucky Derby fame, and Harrisonburg, Virginia, the county seat of Rockingham, in the Shenandoah Valley and known as "The Turkey Capital of the East," and other fossils daily coming to light, may afford important data on the type of animals inhabiting the Ozark region in the dim and distant past.

intersections of 14th and Osage and 16th and Hancock. The matter was referred to the city engineer, who will order appropriate signs, not only for these two intersections, but others similar throughout the city. The city also will install a street light at 14th and Osage avenue.

Mrs. Mary Seigel, operator of the Sedalia Bus Company, submitted a petition through her attorney, Fred F. Wesner asking that the city ordinance calling for the sale of 14 bus tokens for one dollar be rescinded. According to Wesner, due to increased operating costs, such sale is no longer feasible for Mrs. Seigel. A city ordinance requires that such a request be subject to a public hearing. The mayor set the hearing date at October 13. No other change in fares is requested by Mrs. Seigel.

The subject of rent control, and how it will effect people in Sedalia, was introduced by Ellsworth. Mayor Studer appointed a committee composed of Councilmen Ellsworth, Summers, and Vandekamp to study the situation.

The mayor made two appointments in the fire department. George Smethers was promoted from driver to fire captain, and Walker De Lapp was advanced from fireman to relief driver. Both men received an increase in pay.

The council unanimously passed a motion creating three new sewer districts, known as districts 72, 73, and 74, within the city limits. The city has retired coupons on old sewer bond issues totaling $350. These coupons were burned in the meeting.

Reports of city officials were received, read, and placed on file.

A license to sell 3.2 beer and package liquor was granted Reno Johnson of 219 West Main. Renewals were given Louis M. Turner, L. C. Keuper, and the Tally-Ho Drive In for the sale of 3.2 beer.

sumption on Missouri REA-financed lines increased from 54 kilowatt hours in December, 1941, to 103 in the same month in 1949.

Payments by Borrowers

The REA report showed that on June 30 this year Missouri borrowers had paid $10,346,472 in principal and interest on their loans, including $492,374 repaid in advance, twenty-one of the borrowers were ahead in payments and two were behind. A total of $20,551 was more than 30 days over-due.

The REA said it has not made any rural telephone loans in either Missouri or Kansas. But it had on hand 20 loan applications from Missouri totaling $1,295,740 to add 3,072 new telephone subscribers and improve service to 3,957.

Some 37 Kansas loan applications for rural telephone service now on hand seek $2,184,595 to add 1,638 new subscribers and improve service to 11,172.

In the electrical service field, the REA said that on June 30 Kansas had 104,724 electrified farms, compared with 13,224 in 1935.

On June 30 of this year REA had approved $74,273,351 in loans to 37 Kansas cooperatives to construct 48,070 of line and other facilities to serve 88,599 consumers.

REA actually had advanced $55,934,115 of this to borrowers who were operating 36,028 miles of line, serving 69,657 farms and other rural consumers.

Kansas monthly farm consumption of electricity on the REA lines increased from 60 kilowatt hours in December, 1941 to 143 in December, 1949.

As of last June 30, Kansas borrowers had paid $4,404,900 in principal and interest on government loans. Twelve borrowers were ahead on payments and one behind, with $4,990 more than 30 days overdue.

With no further business on hand, the council adjourned.

Three Die in Plane Tailspin

BILOXI, Miss., Oct. 3—(AP)—A B-25 twin-engine bomber tailspun two officers and an enlisted man to death in a Biloxi back yard Monday.

It went out of control and crashed in the city limits a few minutes after take-off from Keesler Air Force base. One propeller was going full force and dug a crater as the bomber was demolished at the rear of the Robert Luther residence.

Lt. John R. Walker of the air base said the plane appeared to have lost power in the engine driving the other propeller.

Walker listed the dead officers as Capt. Wiley M. Rogers, Jr., 33, son of Mrs. Isabel B. Rogers of Raleigh, N. C., and First Lt. Roger J. Hall, 27, son of Charles J. Hall, 27, son of Charles J. Hall of Washington, D. C. The name of the enlisted man was withheld until his next of kin is notified.

The crash occurred midway between the air base and a nearby Veterans administration hospital.

Eugene Eisert Waives Hearing

Eugene Eisert, 18, of Sedalia, charged with tampering with a motor car in two separate cases, waived preliminary hearing, in Springfield, Saturday September 30 before Magistrate W. K. Webb and bound over to circuit court.

He furnished $2,000 bond in each case of the mixed felony charges.

Eisert was one of the boys that crossed the ignition wires on Jack Alper's 1930 Mercury and took it to Springfield where he was arrested for tampering with the other autos.

Wait For A Bus?

CHICAGO — (AP) — A bus stopped at a corner. A young man on the curb said good-bye to a girl friend, gave her a quick peck on the cheek and leaped aboard the bus.

"Why didn't you give her a real kiss?" asked the driver. "I'd have waited."
